Diana Poteat Hobby, 1931-2014, was a devoted patron of literary and performing art forms. The Hobby Center programs in literature, drama and music, especially by local artists in smaller spaces, were among her greatest joys.

Diana came to Texas as a young bride from her family farm in North Carolina. In addition to sharing the humanities through art, nothing gave her more pleasure than serving fresh vegetables from her garden and sharing the bounty of her orchard with her family and friends. She would be honored that her legacy of gracious hospitality lives on at the Hobby Center.
